Opis produktu

Limited 2025 red vinyl edition of the 2010's Dawn Of Inhumanity, the final album by Abscess.

Available on the vinyl format for the very first time, it includes printed inner sleeve with lyrics.

The legendary Abscess hailed from Oakland California and started life in 1994 with their very own brand of Sickodelia. Chris Reifert and Danny Coralles began Abscess after their infamous gore metal band Autopsy disbanded in the mid 90's (before resurrecting in 2009). Chris started his career with the highly influential extreme metal band, Death. The line-up was completed by Clint Bower (Guitar/vocals), with Joe Trevisano joining on bass for the band's later releases.

In October 2009, Abscess descended upon the famous Fantasy Studios, CA, to record the follow-up to their 2007 Tyrant Syndicate album, 'Horrorhammer', with engineer Adam Munoz.

'Dawn of Inhumanity' was released in 2010, leading the listener on an unrivalled nightmare of raw experimental extremity, whilst also including special guest vocal appearances by the Nocturno Culto and Fenriz of Darkthrone. 'Dawn of Inhumanity' was to be the swansong release from Abscess, leaving a legacy of twisted, dirty punk/death without limits!

Cover artwork appeared courtesy of top US artist Dennis Dread (Darkthrone, Autopsy), with booklet art by Chris Reifert himself.
