Aldrnari is the collaboration of Árstíðir lífsins and Carpe Noctem. Recorded at various places in Germany, Sweden and Iceland in 2017 and 2018, Aldrnari was mixed and mastered in February of 2019 by Markus Stock at Klangschmiede Studio E, and embellished with a cover artwork by Artem Grigoryev. Aldrnari explores themes of death and war, fire and life.

Carpe Noctem
was formed in November 2005 and released the demo Myrkraverk in 2008, but its current formation came to be in 2009 after the release of their self titled EP. By this time, the band had earned a reputation of intense stage performances and heavily atmospheric and original songwriting, while rising as one of Iceland s leading acts in Black Metal. The music shows various influences and expresses extreme opposites. It forms a raw, chaotic and apocalyptic soundscape combined with Icelandic lyrics; Often referencing scripture, Norse mythology, occult writings, a pocalyptic prophecies and Icelandic black magic rituals. Carpe Noctem has released two full length albums, In Terra Profugus (2013) and Vitrun (2018) via Code666 Records.

Arstidir Lifsins
The idea to approach Old Norse literature and art in a musically and lyrically sophisticated way gave birth to Árstíðir lífsins. Since its foundation in 2008, the band has released via Ván Records four highly acclaimed full-length albums, two EPs and a split-release with German Black Metal authority Helrunar. Entirely sung in Old Icelandic, Árstíðir lífsins proves with Hvers viðar bani once again its ability to produce audial quality: From ambient archaic folklore soundscapes, supported by dark chants and classical instruments, to both modern and classic Black Metal elements, the musical abilities project genuine craftmanship.
