Relentless and unwavering, DRAWN AND QUARTERED return to desecrate all that is holy with the release of their brand-new full-length album, "Lord of Two Horns", set to drop in LP, CD and MC format on June 27th, 2025 via Nuclear Winter Records.

True standard-bearers of the most vile and uncompromising American death metal, the Seattle-based horde have spent decades defying trends, weathering every storm the underground could throw at them, only to emerge more savage and resolute than ever.

"Lord of Two Horns" delivers eight tracks and 34 minutes of unfiltered DRAWN AND QUARTERED carnage: a maelstrom of blast-driven violence, suffocating atmosphere, and riff work sharp enough to flay flesh from bone. While doom-laden passages and crypt-born melodies still lurk within the shadows, the prevailing force is one of unhinged ferocity – this is death metal crafted to maim, forged in fire and performed with malicious intent.

Recorded over various periods in 2023-2024 at Plague Pit by guitarist Kelly Shane Kuciamba (with drums recorded by Chris Mannino at Die Burning Studios), mixed and mastered by Loïc Fontaine for Krucyator Productions, "Lord of Two Horns" sees DRAWN AND QUARTERED deliver their signature early-90s-influenced death metal darkness with more speed and brutality than ever before.
