Opis produktu

Remastered and re-edited, with a new cover artwork.

Formed in 2004, Execration - a two-piece, at the time - recorded their first demo in 2005: six heavily thrash-inspired songs and a cover of Celtic Frost's "Into The Crypts of Rays". In 2006, original member Jorgen Maris-tuen returned to the band, and the focus shifted towards death metal. They wrote and recorded their first 5 song EP, Language of the Dead. The EP was released in early 2007 through Entartete Musik, the now defunct label of Espen Hangaard (Noplacetohide, Killl, She Said Destroy, Diskord).
Immediately after recording the EP, bass player Jonas Helgemo joined to complete the line-up, which has remai-ned stable since then. A year later, the band recorded their debut album, Syndicate of Lethargy. The album pretty much followed the same path as the EP: death metal inspired by the original American death metal scene - but with something twisted added to the mix. Around the same time, Execration started playing live, mainly perfor-ming smaller shows around Norway.

Black vinyl LP in uncoated sleeve with insert and black polylined inner sleeve. Limited to 200 copies.
