Opis produktu

KATATONIA'S 2001 FIFTH ALBUM OF DARK ROCK AND METAL MELANCHOLY, AGAINST A BACKDROP OF URBAN DECAY. PRESENTED ON DIGIPACK CD FORMAT.

Katatonia was formed in 1991 by Anders Nyström and Jonas Renkse. Their debut album was released in 1993, gaining the band recognition for their eclectic brand of gothic doom/death metal & joining acts such as Paradise Lot & My Dying Bride as one of the genre's defining bands. On future albums a more immediate and focused Katatonia sound came to the fore, starting with third album 'Discouraged Ones' - the main evolution point for modern day Katatonia - before the band also integrated more progressive elements.

Originally released in 2001, 'Last Fair Deal Gone Down' saw Katatonia ambitiously expanding their sound to create one of the most celebrated albums of the band's career.

Containing 11 highly emotional and socially aware pieces, including the singles 'Teargas' and 'Tonight's Music', the album is a superb example of Katatonia's unique brand of Gothic-tinged Metal, and considered a breakthrough album of sorts for the Swedes upon its initial release.

Following on from previous album 'Tonight's Decision', 'Last Fair Deal Gone Down' displayed a new found maturity and accessibility only hinted at on their previous albums.

The mournful vocals of Jonas are, as ever, ably backed by the inventive guitar work of Anders to create a potent and absorbing atmosphere.
