SRUIN230
The debut monstrosity from cryptic French blackened nekro-doom and death-sludge heretics Maudissez is a grueling slab of utter nihilism and misanthropy vomited straight from the black abyss of the blindest religious darkness. Nothing is known about this band, aside from this gut-wrenching, tomb-like, subsonic aural profanation against all catholic scum which was recorded live in a church in France sometime in 2023 as a horrendous desecration ritual against the repugnant existence of organized christian clergy. The putrid offering was then self-released by the band digitally on Bandcamp and on cassette, before ending up in an inevitable unholy pact with Sentient Ruin to have the heretical onslaught spread to a wider audience for the first time ever on vinyl format. An implausible crossway of sorts between bands like Corrupted, Hell, Primitive Man, Dragged Into Sunlight and Gnaw Their Tongues, the enigmatic band's peculiar self-described anti-christian blackened sludge/death-doom displays an abysmal atmosphere shrouded in dissonance and a nekro-fucked audio quality reminiscent of raw punk and raw black metal, but with a massive bottom-caving low end, and absolutely smothering and crushing levels of heaviness. An utter abomination conceived as a vessel of encompassing auditory torment for Maudissez to perpetrate their enigmatic mission of appropriately denying, insulting and crushing the most laughable religion of all time through a wretched defilement of absolute, slow-moving sonic nihilism.
