It has taken time and evolution for Austin Lunn to realize a full Panopticon line-up that had the talent and power to help him bring his personal musical vision in front of an audience. But since he has, Panopticon has devastated wherever they play and with this special release/performance captured in 2018 at the Live Migration festival in Pittsburgh, PA, you too can hear this band on fire and quite comfortable in front of a packed house.

Captured, mixed and mastered by Spenser Morris, this live set possesses a clarity and ferocity that almost sounds like it was recorded in a studio!
