„Im finstren Hain ein Klang sich regt, traurig an den Blättern klebt...”

Ten Walpurgis black metal spells that continue the band's trademark sound; fusing filthy, rustic black metal conjurations and occasional folk instrumentation. A ferocious array of piercing riffs, marching percussions and tortured howls, Ungfell's second full-length presents Helvetic black metal deeply rooted in medieval lore and tales of pestilent witchcraft.

Ghastly ghouls and sinister sorceresses rejoice in these utterances and sounds, gathered as one around the towering witches pyre... as the hangman plays the last lead, the crimson night is not far.

Ungfell was spawned from an array of decrepit moon rites and woodland invocations in late 2014 by Menetekel, who remains the project's driving force to this day. During 2015 the demo, „Demo(lition)” was released, followed by a split (w/Dakhma) in the same year and their debut full-length „Tôtbringære” in 2017.
